TEN-YEAR PLAN TO END HOMELESSNESS IN KING COUNTY

INTEREST STATEMENT

BACKGROUND

Eight organizations, coalitions, and local governments came together in 2002 to form the Committee to End Homelessness in King County, an effort to develop and implement a plan to end homelessness in King County. In 2003, planning to end homelessness became a national initiative of the federal government and has since become a requirement for continued receipt of over $35 million in annual grant assistance to jurisdictions within King County from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

A Governing Board charged with building political will countywide and overseeing plan implementation has been formed. The Governing Board will be assisted by a Consumer Advisory Council made up of homeless or formerly homeless individuals and an Interagency Council comprising representatives of multiple systems that serve or are impacted by homelessness. These committees will work to set priorities, develop detailed action plans, and coordinate implementation activities.

PLAN OBJECTIVES

The Ten-Year Plan to End Homelessness provides a strategy for the community to seek long-term and sustainable solutions to the issue, rather than continuing to manage costly episodes of homelessness as they occur.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

The City of Woodinville supports collaborative efforts that prevent individuals from becoming homeless and for those that do experience homelessness, efforts to provide opportunities for permanent housing with appropriate support services designed to assist the individual in becoming as self-sufficient as possible. Such efforts include, but are not limited to the following:

- Continue to Support a Broad Continuum of Services. A regional safety net of programs addressing the full spectrum of community needs must be maintained and enhanced. Homelessness is effectively prevented through continued investment in areas such as domestic violence advocacy, mental health treatment, early intervention with at-risk youth, employment counseling and emergency financial assistance.
- Prioritize Alignment of Existing Funding Resources. As a first step, funds within the system currently programmed to manage homelessness should be aligned toward efforts to prevent and end homelessness.

- Recognize Homelessness as a Regional Issue. All sub-regions should actively partner to improve the regional response to addressing those factors leading to homelessness that have county-wide impacts.
- Acknowledge Differences in Sub-Regional Needs. Each sub-region of the county should lead efforts to identify and address factors leading to homelessness that are particularly prevalent in that sub-region.
- Acknowledge Differences in Sub-Regional Strategies to End Homelessness. As sub-regional needs differ, so too will strategies to address those needs. County-wide initiatives and funding resources should accommodate sub-regional variation in the programmatic response to preventing and ending homelessness.
- Enhance Locally Available Services. Individuals and families at risk of homelessness or who become homeless should be able to access either prevention support or permanent housing with support services that address the root causes of their housing crisis within the community in which they live. Funding originating from federal, state and county sources should be distributed equitably across all county sub-regions to support local responses to homelessness from public, private and non-profit organizations, including faith communities.
- Continue to Support Existing Conduits for Affordable Housing Production. Confirm the role of A Regional Coalition for Housing (ARCH) as the primary conduit for the Eastside sub-region's response to issues of housing production that relate to homelessness.
- Coordinate efforts with the King County Healthy Families and Communities Task Force. Homeless housing and support services were categorized as Regional Services by the Task Force on Regional Human Services in its report to the King County Regional Policy Council. Therefore, activities of the Committee to End Homelessness and the King County Healthy Families and Communities Task Force should be coordinated as they relate to the development of long-term stable funding for regional human services.
- Establish Performance Measures and Uphold Accountability. Performance measures should be designed to track the regional progress in ending homelessness. These measures should be regularly reported to the community and be used to ensure accountability and positive outcomes within the service system.
